

About the Authors

RUANNI TUPAS currently lectures in sociolinguistics in education at the Centre for Applied Linguistics, Institute of Education, University College London. Prior to his current appointment, he taught at the University of the Philippines in Diliman, Virginia Tech in the United States, National University of Singapore and National Institute of Education, Nanyang Technological University. He is an Associate Editor of the International Journal of the Sociology of Language, and on the international advisory and editorial boards of several journals, including TESOL Quarterly and Language Teaching.

LUCRIS CARINA (Louie) AGNIR-PARAAN is Vice President for Academic Affairs and President-elect of Northern Christian College in Laoag City, Ilocos Norte, and Director for Communication Programs of the Center for Global Best Practices in Alabang. She earned her Ph.D. in English Studies (major in Language) at the University of the Philippines in Diliman, where her dissertation was awarded the Gawad Antonio Mercado Abad Pinakamahusay na Dissertasyon sa Antas Gradwado (Most Outstanding Dissertation in the Graduate Level). Her AB and MA degrees were also earned at the University of the Philippines. She is currently pursuing directions in research that emerged from her dissertation data. She also conducts various training programs and seminars in speaking and writing in Business English, as well as on cultural sensitivity in communication for expats working in the Philippines.

FINA FELISA LAVALLE-ALCUDIA is a faculty member of the College of Education of West Visayas State University (WVSU) in Iloilo City. She teaches courses in English language teaching and linguistics in the undergraduate and graduate levels and is a regional trainer for DepED senior high school English teachers. She holds a BSE degree (English and Social Science) from WVSU, M.Ed. in TESL from UP Visayas, and Ph.D. in English Studies (Language) from UP Diliman.

Prof. Alcudia was awarded the WVSU's Most Outstanding Teacher in 2017. She is currently the Director of the University Distance Education Program.

JULIE B. JOLO is an instructor of the Department of English and Comparative Literature at the University of the Philippines Diliman where she obtained a bachelor's degree under the English Studies: Language program. She has done research in the field of critical discourse analysis with a focus on gender and metaphor studies and has presented her work in international conferences on women's studies and applied linguistics. She currently teaches undergraduate courses on composition, research, and literature while also serving as a freelance storyteller. Ms. Jolo recently received an Erasmus scholarship and will pursue graduate studies in Gender and Women's Studies at the York University and University of Utrecht.

IRISH JOY DEOCAMPO is a faculty member of the Department of English and Comparative Literature. She also worked as a teacher-fellow for Teach for the Philippines from 2015 to 2017. She has conducted several communication and writing workshops for both teachers and government officials. She graduated cum laude with a degree in BA English Studies major in Language from UP Diliman.

RALPH VINCENT G. CATEDRAL graduated with a degree in English Studies: Language (magna cum laude) from the University of the Philippines. He also holds a Juris Doctor degree from the same university. He is currently the Prosecution Manager of the Manila field office of International Justice Mission, a global organization that seeks to protect the vulnerable from violence. He represents in court survivors of human trafficking and online sexual exploitation.

MARK ALVIN R. RECTO graduated with a degree in English Studies: Language (magna cum laude) from the University of the Philippines. He also has a law degree from the University of San Carlos in Cebu. He is currently working as a Court Attorney in the Visayas Station of the Court of Appeals.

MARELLA THERESE TIONGSON is an Assistant Professor at the Department of English and Comparative Literature, University of the Philippines Diliman, where she handles courses in English teaching, language studies, and academic writing. She holds a Master of Education in TESOL Leadership (with distinction) from Massey University in New Zealand, and a Bachelor of Secondary Education (magna cum laude) from the University of the Philippines Diliman. Her research interests include writing in the disciplines, interdisciplinary collaboration, and genre pedagogy.

GRACE M. SAQUETON is an Assistant Professor at the Department of English and Comparative Literature, College of Arts and Letters, University of the Philippines-Diliman. Her research interests include critical discourse analysis, language and gender studies, World Englishes, Unequal Englishes, and critical pedagogy.

MAXINE RAFAELLA C. RODRIGUEZ is an Instructor at the Department of English and Comparative Literature at the University of the Philippines-Diliman. She is currently pursuing a Master of Arts degree in English Language and Linguistics (Research) at the National University of Singapore. Her research interests include discourse analysis, historical revisionism, multimodality, and sociolinguistics.

CHRISTIAN GO is a PhD candidate in English Language and Linguistics at the National University of Singapore. His on-going research is on the semiotic construction of Metro Manila Pride's linguistic landscape. His research interests include language and sexuality and linguistic anthropology.

VENUS PAPILOTA-DIAZ is Associate Professor and Learning Assessment Center Director at West Visayas State University (WVSU), Iloilo City. She finished her PhD English Studies (Language) at UP Diliman as CHED FDP Scholarship grantee. She has published papers in Review of Women Studies and Philippine Journal of Linguistics and a primer on addressing rape, advocating women's and child's rights. and has presented papers in conferences sponsored by IAFL, IGALA, and Linguistic Society of the Philippines. At the moment, Dr. Papilota-Diaz serves as faculty researcher, English Editor, and member of Technical Review Committee at WVSU Research and Development Center.

GLORY FE B. SALMINGO and APRIL ROSE C. VALENCIANA are Magna Cum Laude graduates of the AB English Program at WVSU. The article is an offshoot of their thesis which won the Best Thesis Award in 2016, under the supervision of Dr. Venus Papilota-Diaz. Ms. Salmingo is presently pursuing her Doctor of Medicine at WVSU, and Ms. Valenciana her Bachelor of Laws at the University of San Agustin, Iloilo City.