

NOTES ON THE AUTHORS

FERNANDO V. CAO is the Managing Editor of KASARINLAN and an MA student at the UP. His interest lies on the study of millenarian movements in the Philippines.

RANDOLF S. DAVID is the Editor of KASARINLAN and the Director of the Third World Studies Center (TWSC). A professor of Sociology at the UP, he hosts a television talk show entitled "Public Forum", which discusses a wide range of socio-political issues in the Filipino language.

P.N. ABINALES is a Research Associate of the TWSC and a Lecturer at the UP Department of Pilipino. He has written numerous essays on the military, the Philippine student movement and the Philippine Left.

ADHARAIL B. HAPAS is an Assistant Professor at the Mindanao State University in Tawi-Tawi. He is presently taking his MA in Asian Studies at the UP.

FRANCOIS HOUTART has written a number of books and articles about Vietnam, India and Nicaragua. He teaches sociology at the University of Louvain in Belgium and is the Director of CETRI, a research institution that concerns itself with Third World problems.

MARTY VILLALOBOS is the nom de plume of a writer who has authored several essays which tackled extensively the Latin American revolutionary experience. He is known to be an advocate of the urban insurrectionary strategy within the Philippine Left.

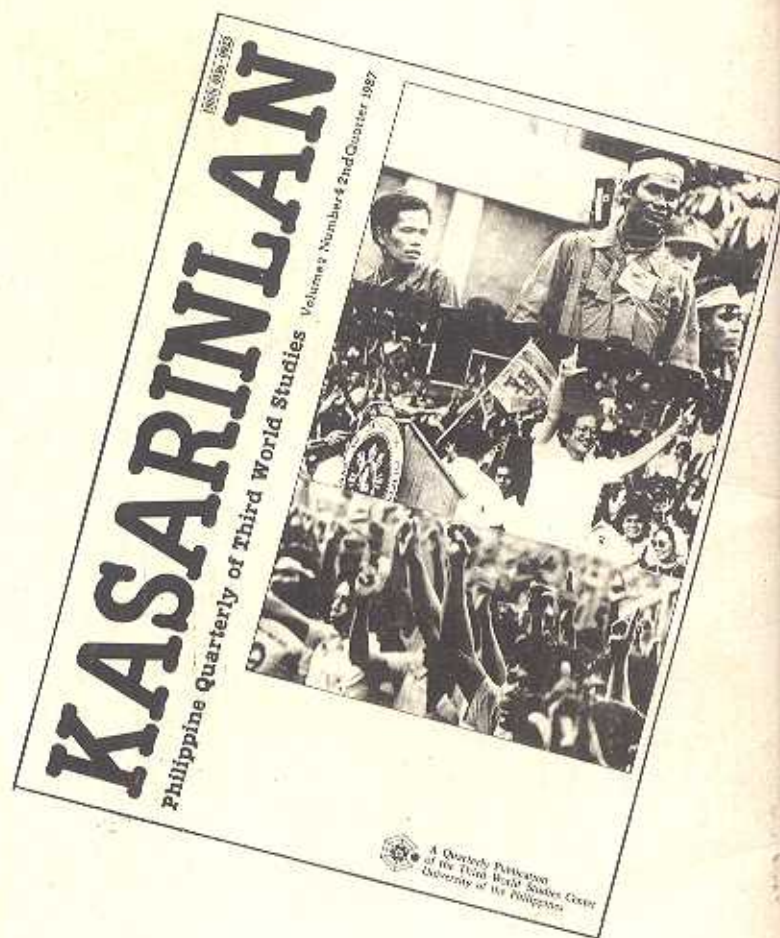

WARIN WONGHANCHAO is with the Chulalongkorn University Social Research Institute in Thailand. He is also a member of the Thai Research Team of the United Nations University Southeast Asian Perspectives Project.

OMAR TUPAZ is another nom de plume of a former student of the UP presently doing independent studies on post-Vietnam insurgency and counter-insurgency in the Third World. His article in this issue of KASARINLAN states a theoretical argument in defense of urban guerilla warfare. As this is an issue now being hotly debated within the Philippine Left, KASARINLAN hopes that his paper will elicit comments which may then be included in its subsequent issues.

ALEXANDER R. MAGNO is a regular contributor of KASARINLAN who is known for his essays on the Philippine State. An Assistant Professor of Political Science at the UP, he is also a Research Fellow of the TWSC.

FRANCISCO A. MAGNO is a Research Assistant of the TWSC and a Lecturer in Political Science at the UP. He is also the Managing Editor of the Economic and Political Monthly, another publication of the TWSC.
