About the Journal

Sanyata: Journal of Creative Works of the Philippine Built Environment

The Sanyata: Journal of Creative Works of the Philippine Built Environment is a platform by the University of the Philippines College of Architecture to disseminate the creative works crafted in the realm of the built environment—architecture, landscape architecture, interior design, and urban and environmental design. This publication seeks original work and welcomes contributions related to a variety of issue areas. All submitted works should not have been previously published.

The Sanyata is a peer-reviewed journal of creative works of the UP College of Architecture. The journal will publish commissioned and peer-reviewed articles about creative outputs and that address, analyze, or reflect on history, design, technology, urbanism, teaching, and spatial theories of the designed and built environment. The project featured in the journal is foregrounded as a product of knowledge generation and elucidation of contemporary architectural discourse

The Sanyata comes from “sanyata” an Ilokano word for beauty and light; a powerful experience, mysterious and beautiful—visceral and corporeal qualities we sought to create in architecture and designed environment.

Sanyata Journal considers for publication creative works of the Philippine built environment. Written works should be well-organized, clearly written, interesting, coherent, intelligently argued, and accurate regarding attributions.

Ethics Statement

Commitment to Ethics

The Sanyata Journal: Journal of Creative Works of the Philippine Built Environment from the UP College of Architecture prioritizes publishing high-quality articles while upholding academic and research integrity. Everyone involved in the publication process, from publishers and editors to reviewers and authors, must follow these ethical guidelines to ensure fairness and credibility.

Publication Ethics

The Sanyata Journal maintains ethical standards throughout the publishing process. The editorial team and the publisher are not responsible for verifying copyright permissions submitted by authors. Any copyright infringement will lead to rejection of the material before publication or retraction after publication. Additionally, all submitted materials must be free of libelous, defamatory, obscene, or unlawful content.

Originality and Authorship

- Authors are responsible for ensuring their submitted work is original and has not been published elsewhere or is currently under review by another journal.
- All authors must agree to the manuscript's submission for publication.
- The manuscript should comply with copyright and plagiarism regulations. Authors are responsible for obtaining permission to use any copyrighted material.

Author Responsibilities

- Authors must prepare their manuscripts for anonymous review, removing any identifying information.
- All sources must be properly cited according to the journal's formatting guidelines.
- Authors must disclose any potential conflicts of interest, such as funding sources.

- Authors are expected to maintain academic integrity by accurately presenting data and acknowledging sources.
- They must adhere to deadlines set by the editorial team for revisions and production stages.

Review Process

The Sanyata Journal utilizes a double-blind peer-review process.

The Editorial Team initially assesses the manuscript's suitability for the journal based on adherence to the submission guidelines.

Manuscripts passing the initial screening are forwarded to qualified expert reviewers.

Reviewers anonymously evaluate the manuscript, providing feedback on its strengths, weaknesses, and recommendations for improvement. They may also suggest relevant works not cited by the author.

Based on the reviewer evaluations, the author's work will receive a notification if the manuscript is accepted for publication without revisions, accepted with minor revisions, accepted with major revisions, or rejected.

Open Access and Copyright

The Sanyata Journal is an open-access journal, making all published articles freely available online immediately upon release. Authors retain the copyright of their work but must acknowledge the Sanyata Journal as the original publisher if the work is republished elsewhere.

The journal adheres to a Creative Commons Attribution-Noncommercial 4.0 International License.

Privacy

The Sanyata Journal protects the privacy of its users. Information such as names and email addresses are used solely for journal purposes and will not be shared with any third party.
